SNAP IS BACK!

Nintendo 64 game makes a comeback on Wii's Virtual console!

Yes you read that right! If you're lucky enough to have a Wii you will soon be able to play Pokémon Snap on the Virtual Console.

Never heard of it? Well it was a game on the Nintendo 64 back in 2000. In Snap you play a guy called Todd who becomes a Pokémon photographer and has to wander around Pokémon Island taking snapshots for Professor Oak. The Prof needs these shots to accompany his Pokémon scientific findings you see, so you need to take care of various aspects of the pictures – size, pose, technique and the number of monsters you can snap at one time all bring high scores. There are 63 Pokémon hidden away in the game, which isn't many really and was a reason the original didn't score very highly the first time around. It's worth a play though. ☺

THEY'RE POKE-ING OUT OF SMASH BROS!

Veteran Pokémon reappear in new Smash Bros game!

 It has been revealed on the official website for Super Smash Bros Brawl that all of the previous Pokémon that appeared in the Smash Bros games are in this new version too!

Suicune is back with an Icy Cloud Storm attack that knocks everyone out; Lugia can send out its Aeroblast that knocks competitors flying; Saryu flies around then homes in on one player to deliver its Swift attack; Bellossom can use Sleep to send others off to the land of nod; Ho-Oh can deliver Sacred Fire into the battle arena causing incredible damage; Togepi gets its Metronome going for a variety of attacks; Snorlax leaps into the air then lands back larger than before, splatting all in its way; and then there is Mew and Celebi who this time jump into the air and rain down gifts like CDs and stickers! Wow, sounds like this game is packed with secret Pokémon goodness; it's going to be a blast to play!

Sadly, the game was planned for a 1 February release over here in the UK, the US version being out in time for Christmas, but our Nintendo man tells us that this is no longer the case. All he can tell us is 'sometime in the spring' – so that means a few more months wait for us all. Never mind, gives us all time to enjoy Pokémon Battle Revolution first I suppose! ☺

☺ When Mew or Celebi appear in the game, they will deliver you a great surprise in the form of a CD or some stickers. All virtual gifts of course, but fun nonetheless!

POKÉMON DIAMOND VERSION PEARL VERSION CHARACTER PROFILE

Palmer

This guy is always in a hurry and talks nervously. He's the Tower Tycoon Palmer and the leader of the Battle Tower in the new games. He is the father of your rival Pokémon Trainer. Of course, you might have renamed the rival in your game, if you hadn't, it would be Pearl or Diamond depending on your game. ☺

WITH MOVIE NAMED!

Japanese TV show Oha Suta recently revealed the title of the next Pokémon movie over there. It's called Diamond & Pearl: Giratina And The Bouquet From The Icy Sky and the snippet we have seen shows Giratina along with Palkia and Dialga with the tagline 'The fight of the Pokémon Gods has not ended'! The movie will be in cinemas in Japan in July, and you can see the teaser trailer for yourself by pointing your web browsers to www.pokemon-movie.jp. You'll also see Regigigas in the trailer and we hear that Shaymin will also make an appearance. UK release... oooh, let's say 2020! ☺

SARA'S FACE

by Melvin Burgess

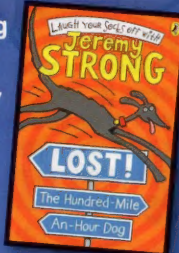

Sara Carter wants to be famous. Fame is her obsession. So when legendary rock star Jonathon Heat offers her star training and the cosmetic surgery she thinks she wants, Sara can't believe her dream will come true. But Jonathon Heat doesn't want Sara's talent. Jonathon Heat wants Sara's face! Melvin Burgess is on top form with this chilling, original and topical psychological thriller. ©

LOST! THE HUNDRED-MILE-AN-HOUR DOG

by Jeremy Strong

Streaker the dog is lost. And not just a bit lost, but REALLY LOST! It wasn't even her fault! She wanted to protect some pies from the pie robber and suddenly she's miles from home – and she has to make friends with a cat. A CAT! But it gets a lot hairier when they find themselves face-to-face with a baboon... For the first time ever, Streaker tells her incredible adventures in her own words – and very funny words they are too. Rowan Clifford's illustrations add to the chaotic fun. ©

GAMER GRAFFIX!

High quality, 3D Pokémon posters get the green light!

American company Gamer Graffix has just won the licence from Pokémon Company USA to produce versions of their Wall Graffix posters based on Pokémon! These are special 'next generation, three-dimensional, removable posters that can be applied to any flat surface'. Basically what this means is they are top quality vinyl stickers, measuring 45cm x 60cm that you can put on walls, windows, cars, vans – you get the idea.

Gamer Graffix are the guys behind all the console skins you see in the shops these days. They have a great range of videogame themed skins for PlayStation 3, PS2, Xbox 360, PSP and the Nintendo DS, with all of the major videogame brands and characters represented in their portfolio. We particularly like the Mario Kart and Nintendogs range – very cool indeed!

At $19.99 each, expect to see some of these imported to your local Gamestation or independent game shop sometime in 2008. With import costs expect to pay around £12 for one. ©

ULTIMATE PACK!

Pokémon Center launches the ultimate DP pack...

We always wonder whether to bring you these snippets of news or not, as you'll probably find it tough to get down to the Pokémon Center in New York, and they don't deliver to the UK (boo, hiss!), but it's perhaps interesting to read anyway... Over Christmas the Pokémon Center put together the ultimate Pokémon Diamond and Pearl pack for true Pokémon collectors to pig out on everything to do with the game. It contained a limited edition yellow Pikachu Nintendo DS Lite, both games, a copy of Prima's strategy guide book and a copy of the new Pokédex book. Wow – all of that for only $345.95 (that's around £173 to you and me). Maybe it's about time The Pokémon Company thought about launching a Pokémon

Centre in the UK – I'm sure you will agree it would do great business with packs like this on offer! ©

FROM THE FORUM

SmArticuno says:
I am aware that Pokémon do not die in battle. But I think they must eventually die to make room for newly hatched Pokémon. And the whole point of Pokémon is: evolution. Natural selection definitely cannot take place if all Pokémon are immortal. And it probably wouldn't be financially advisable to store them all in PCs because, 1) they would all hate you, and 2) memory is expensive. So what do you think?

Blackjack Gabbiani says:
Your Pokémon in the games don't, but others have been shown to. Remember the dead Marowak and Onix in the games? And the graveyard in Special?

Anaya says:
Well yeah. Why do you think there is that tower in Lavender Town?

Psychic Politoed says:
Go to either Lavender Tower or Mt Pyre and some people should talk about cherished Pokémon they have that died. Plus, in Red/Blue/Fire Red/Leaf Green, a Marowak was killed by Team Rocket and fought the trainer as a ghost.

POKÉMON FAN FICTION

Danger On The Road To New Bark Town

By Sarah Barwick, age ten, Saltburn

"One more lovely, sunny day in Pokémon paradise," yawned Sarah as she woke from her dream about becoming the greatest Pokémon Master ever.

"I think we'll go home today Dragonair," she exclaimed. "It's a lovely day to go for a nice quiet stroll, isn't it?"

So when she was ready, Sarah and Dragonair set off on the long route back to New Bark Town. Along the way Sarah managed to catch a Primeape and Dragonair KO'd a Wild Aipom. Then, suddenly Team Rocket leaped out of the bushes, followed by Arbok and Weezing - not forgetting Meowth!

Singing their tone-deaf motto, Team Rocket were after Dragonair. Sarah desperately called her Pokémon who quickly did an Extreme Speed attack, which took Team Rocket by surprise and sent them flying.

Then there was an awfully loud sound wave - it sounded like screeching! Dragonair darted off in the direction of Blackthorn City.

Sarah quickly sent out her Pidgeot and clambered onto the Pokémon's back to go in search of Dragonair who was already many miles away.

Unfortunately Dragonair was nowhere to be seen, but in ten minutes Sarah was back at her home at Dragon's Den. She wondered if her Dragonair was going to be okay.

Meanwhile Dragonair was fighting Team Rocket with full-on attacks! A Slam, a Dragon Breath and Extreme Speed were all tried, but nothing worked! Then suddenly, Sarah came crashing in on Pidgeot's back and demanded that her Pokémon be set free. While Team Rocket were distracted, Dragonair cut the net holding hundreds of Pokémon open and let them all out. They all charged at Team Rocket together, seeing them off for good!

Later that evening Sarah managed to get home, and when she did she told everyone about her amazing adventures and how she and Dragonair had defeated Team Rocket for good.

My name is Abigail Hull and I am 13 years old. I am writing to tell you that I really enjoy your magazine and I have collected every one so far. My favourite two Pokémon are Groudon, and Kyogre (from Pokémon Emerald). I wanted to ask you when the next Pokémon League event is, and I was hoping that there was going to be one near Aldershot (where I live)? The best part of the magazine is Mew's News and Professor Yew. I really hope that the whole Pokémon thing goes on for ages.

Pokémon® Mystery Dungeon

TIME EXPEDITION DARKNESS EXPEDITION

TWO EXCITING SEQUELS TO 2006'S MYSTERY DUNGEON GAMES ARE COMING YOUR WAY... THIS TIME BOTH FOR NINTENDO DS. WE CAST AN EYE OVER THEM BOTH...

We love Pokémon. Who doesn't? It might have started out as a playground fad, but the enduring quality of the games has enabled Pokémon to survive the onslaught of a dozen copycat rivals. And, most impressively, even spin-offs in the series – things like Pokémon Puzzle League and Pokémon Snap – tend to maintain a constantly high level of quality.

Pokémon Mystery Dungeon: Time Expedition and its companion Darkness Expedition are follow-ups to the similarly titled Blue Rescue Team and Red Rescue Team games which were released on the DS and GBA in 2006. They're not too far removed from the mainline of Pokémon games – there is a great deal of exploration here, and frequent battles – but it's all played from a slightly different perspective. You don't play as a Pokémon Trainer here; you play as an actual Pokémon representation of your own self. Which Pokémon you end up as is dictated by your response to a series of personality-defining questions posed at the outset of the games. Your writer was Meowth, but we're not really sure why – the software described my personality as "intelligent, and likely to go his own way". (Quite right.) And there's no Pokémon collection as such; instead, you form a Rescue Team of Pokémon and set off on expeditions deep into labyrinthine dungeons, all in an effort to find treasures and return you to the real world (thereby absolving you of your Pokémon form). It's a neat concept, and it's a great excuse for some massively enjoyable dungeon trawling.

ダグトリオ「ゆめなんかじゃない。

Although most of the time only the touch screen is used to display what's happening, the top screen is utilised during cut-scenes to give an extra window into the proceedings. These scene-setting sequences are surprisingly important: the game progresses through a day-to-night system, ending each day with a sound night's sleep, and it's all very elegantly put together. There are some really beautiful sunsets and forest landscapes to be seen here; the whole game looks hand-drawn. Fortunately, it has the gameplay to match its looks.

Unlike the dungeons of Zelda, where you can learn every map until you're able to play through them with your eyes shut, the dungeons here are partly random, so the layout of a dungeon will be slightly different every time you enter. It's an effective system for keeping things fresh and avoiding repetition.

The battle system, too, is fresh and accessible. Your entourage walks a short distance behind your own character, so your Pokémon

IS TWO BETTER THAN ONE?

Is it a double-your-money act of cashing in on the popularity of Pokémon, or do we really need two new versions of the new Mystery Dungeon games? We like to think it's purely an act of creative expression and there are many good reasons for Pokémon fans to invest in both Time and Darkness Expeditions – not least of which is the fact that the two titles contain different bosses, as well as different Pokémon line-ups.

ダグトリオの やくわりでゲス。」

partner can initially fend off any enemies that try to attack from the rear. But then, to protect your pal and ensure that your own Pokémon levels up at a good rate, it makes sense to join in with any battle that begins. As with other DS RPGs like Crystal Chronicles: Ring Of Fates, combat takes place directly as you wander around – there's no cut to 'battle scenes' – so you need to be careful at all times and ensure that you're always prepared to defend your Pokémon friends and attack any baddies that might try to sap your health.

In terms of depth and longevity, Pokémon Mystery Dungeon: Time Expedition and Darkness Expedition are pretty impressive. Aside from the initially available list of 16 playable Pokémon (including Pikachu – hurray!), from which you can form a Rescue Team of four, there are in total 490 Pokémon to encounter – that's virtually the entire National Pokédex. In addition, there are other modes to enjoy outside of the main adventure, including a Battle Dojo wherein you can freely fight with any Pokémon you've encountered in the main quest.

A two-player co-operative mode (over Wi-Fi) caps these new Mystery Dungeon releases with the perfect amplifier; dungeon exploration is even more rewarding when you're exploring (and battling) alongside a friend. As with the vast majority of Pokémon games, Time and Darkness are more than the sum of their parts. It's probably down to the richness of the Pokémon world, but there's a spark here – something unquantifiable that makes us want to spend many hours in the company of bizarre Pocket Monsters. And again, why not? ☺

ティグダ「そんなこと いわれてもう……。
わからないものは わからないよー。」

ドゴーム「いそげ! しゅうごうに

POKÉMON WORLD POKÉDEX CARDS

There we were, sitting around having a cup of tea and thinking of new ideas for your favourite Pokémon magazine when it suddenly struck us – there are now 493 Pokémon but we've never attempted to create a full set of Pokémon Pokédex cards for you!

So here we are... this is the first batch of Pokémon World Pokédex Cards. All you've got to do is cut out the cards (we've cleverly printed the fronts and backs on reverse pages!) and keep them in one of our special Pokémon card boxes that we've printed in this, and previous issues. If you're really feeling crafty, then we recommend that you have a go at laminating the cards too, giving them a nice card-like feel!

Hope you like our cool card collection – the Pokémon will be in a random order each issue. Those among you who know maths will be able to work out that at a rate of 18 cards per issue, it's going to take 28 issues to make it to the end of the collection, so see you in Issue 101 for the last ones! No, seriously, we'll print a lot more in future issues as they look really nifty and we think these will make a cool collection. ☺

We've given you the sprite from Diamond and Pearl, and another sprite either from the earliest game this Pokémon appears in, or its back sprite if it's a new one.

All the base stats are here for you to check out before using a Pokémon in the videogames.

Believe it or not, you'll find the name of the Pokémon and its National Pokédex number at the top of the card!

VIVA PINATA PARTY animals

Since the original Viva Pinata game came out over a year ago, these cartoon critters have gone from strength to strength. The TV series has even made it on to proper telly, not just digital, and now there's a cool party game on the Xbox 360 that does away with all the serious strategy stuff and just wants you to have fun!

You start by choosing your favourite star from the cartoon - Franklin Fuddyshee, Hudson Houndstache, Paulie Pretzall and Fergy Fudgehog all making an appearance - and you then set off across Pinata Island to play all of the 50 mini-games that Rare and Microsoft have packed into the game.

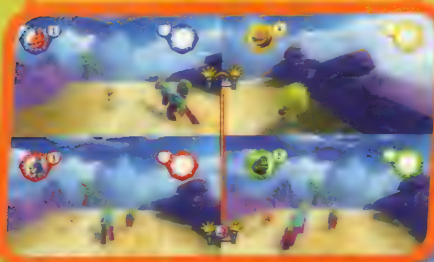

It's a mix of racing games and party pieces and you can choose to play a short, medium or long version, which is good if you've got little brothers or sisters involved who perhaps don't have the attention span needed for a

★ It's a mix of races and mini-games that'll keep you coming back for more fun and frolic!

★ Four-player split-screen means you can have lots of fun without even going on Xbox Live!

mammoth gaming session. Mini-games include game like 'Barns Ahoy!', where the pinatas must send sailboats across Lake Pinata by burping into their sails. 'Caramel Apple Gobble' sees the creatures involved in one of their favourite tasks - slurping on sweet, yummy caramel apples and trying to be the first to finish their sugary fruit, and 'Blown Away' has them passing an exploding Halloween pumpkin between them with the loser the one holding it when it goes off!

There are some new pinatas making an appearance in Party Animals too. Meet Hailey Horstachio who brings a bit of style, glamour and spice to proceedings and Petunia Pretzall is a kung-fu chopping thrill seeker with a daredevil-may-care attitude - she'll give anyone a run for their money!

As you can probably tell, Viva Pinata: Party Animals has been designed with a friends and family gaming experience in mind. None of the games are particularly taxing on die-hard videogame fans, but they are all packed with fun and frolic and the visuals are as good as watching the cartoon show itself. Up to four gamers can play simultaneously over Xbox Live or using split-screen, so mum, dad and the kids can take on all-comers from around the world in the wild and wacky games!

We thoroughly enjoyed our afternoon gaming sessions with this one. If you've got an Xbox 360, grab a copy of Viva Pinata: Party Animals and have a real blast! ☺

ETERNAL SONATA™

There can't be many games that use the supposed thoughts of a dying composer on his death bed as the basis of an entire role-playing adventure – but Eternal Sonata does! Chopin is the tune-smith in question and he is thought to have imagined a young girl facing a terrible destiny and a boy who will fight to save her – it's a tale of good, evil, love and betrayal. We're not sure how Namco Bandai knew all this about Chopin, but what we do know is that it has made a beautiful RPG that really shows off what the Xbox 360 is capable of with amazing, high-definition visuals and an innovative battle system that Pokémon fans will certainly enjoy!

The game combines free-roaming adventure with turn-based action sequences with up to three players doing battle as a team. There's also innovative use of light and dark

Three players get to battle it out with a wide range of enemies together.

– some enemies lurk in the shadows with their stats, attacks and potency changing while they are dark. Lure them out into the light to wrong-foot them and gain the advantage!

With a moving and dramatic storyline, mesmerising music that Frédéric Chopin himself would have been proud of, and hours of solid gameplay, Eternal Sonata is a game unlike any other we can remember.

It's certainly well worth a look if you are an Xbox 360 owner.

Can't get enough of Dragon Ball Z? Well you're in luck, as the Nintendo Wii is about to be hit hard with the latest instalment of this never-ending series – Dragon Ball Z Budokai Tenkaichi 3 (no, we can't pronounce it either!)

Jenga

Surely you've all played Jenga – it's a game that has been around since the early Eighties and has become a worldwide hit for board game maker Hasbro. Well, Atari has snapped up the licence to make videogames based on the block-topping original and have a DS and Wii version all ready to go!

Of course, the Nintendo consoles are perfect for a conversion such as this. The Wii Remote and Nunchuk are used to great effect, allowing players to get physical with their Jenga game and move as they would playing the real-life version. The DS touch-screen has been utilised too, with players using the stylus in an attempt to stop the tower falling. All controls are intuitive and easy to use – these games just wouldn't be possible on other consoles!

★ Whoa! Someone is about to become a big Jenga loser with that move. Watch out below!

★ You need a very steady hand to be a winner at Jenga on Wii or DS.

For those who don't know, the basic idea behind Jenga is that you take it in turns to remove a block of wood from the pile, then add it to the top. Some go one way, some go another way, some can straddle other blocks and others can be placed firmly like a brick. The skill is in making sure your blocks go on without causing the Jenga tower to collapse, while placing blocks that could cause it to collapse on your opponent's turn! It's a game that welcomes players of all skill levels, and Atari has tried to inject an extra appeal to game fans by creating a bunch of crazy characters you can select to represent you in the game.

The success of the simulation here is all in the sophisticated physics going on behind the scenes – blocks move and act in a realistic way.

There are single and multiplayer options, plus the choice of playing the original game or new versions with power-ups and twists that are only possible in the videogame version of Jenga! ○

LEGO STAR WARS

THE COMPLETE SAGA

Building on the success of both Lego® Star Wars™ blockbuster videogames, Lego® Star Wars™: The Complete Saga enables families to play through the events of all six Star Wars movies in one videogame for the first time ever. Developer Traveller's Tales takes full advantage of the unique capabilities of all three next-generation consoles, while also adding new characters, new levels and new features. Players can build and battle on the Wii, PlayStation 3, Xbox 360 and Traveller's Tales also created an entirely new Nintendo DS version.

The Complete Saga takes players to the most beautiful Lego galaxy ever assembled with high-definition graphics on the PlayStation 3 and Xbox 360, and with both consoles online capabilities, families spread across the world can unite to rebuild a galaxy in pieces with cooperative two-player, drop-in/drop-out gameplay. Meanwhile, the unique Wii and Nintendo DS control schemes result in the most interactive Lego Star Wars gaming experience yet.

From the Trade Federation's negotiations with Obi-Wan Kenobi and Qui-Gon Jinn in The Phantom Menace to the space battle above Endor in Return Of The Jedi, The Complete Saga allows players to kick some brick through 36 Story mode levels, including Episode II's newly added high-speed pursuit of bounty hunter Zam Wessell.

In addition to new levels and new playable characters like Aayla Secura and Watto, the upgraded Character Customiser includes all prequel trilogy characters and expanded customisation options for millions of possibilities, such as cross-trilogy mash-up characters like Han Windu and Lando Amidale. More than 160 characters can be mixed and matched in all.

More new additions to the gameplay include Force Powers. Darth Vader and other Sith characters have a new way to attack with the Dark Side of the Force by lifting enemies in to the air then swinging and throwing them a new powerful 'Force Throw' move. Jedi can now use an enhanced 'Force Push' move to send multiple droids flying into walls simultaneously. Power-ups have been enhanced and scattered throughout all levels of the game to give you a taste of the unlockable advanced powers right from the start of your adventure. Some of these power-ups are in plain sight, but some will be a challenge to find. Power-ups give a boost of abilities like invulnerability, turbo speed and enhanced attack damage. But the new-found power is for a limited time only, so use it wisely!

When it comes to the Wii, the motion-sensitive input of the Wii Remote gives you fun new ways to control your characters. Aspiring young Jedi can practise moves such as the Jedi Lunge, Jedi Slam, Force Transform and Force Push using the Wii Remote and Nunchuk for the first time. The unique controls also come in handy for building and climbing. Approach piles of Lego elements, and move the Nunchuk and Wii Remote up and down to move your character's arms – move faster and you will build faster. On Grapple Point platforms, sweep the Wii Remote up and to the right to launch upwards.

The DS has some great new games. Head over to as you can before the timer runs out; Deflection, where you get to relive the classic Lightsaber training scene featured in Episode IV: A New Hope; Pitstop brings you the experience of the intensity of a Mos Espa Pod Race pit stop; and Grievous sees you guiding General Grievous's Wheel Bike through the tunnel.

The Complete Saga features ten brand new Bounty Hunter missions for Episodes I-III. As you progress through the game, and have collected a group of Bounty Hunter characters to play, you will be invited to undertake these secret missions on behalf of Jabba the Hutt. The ten new missions complement the ten available for Episodes IV-VI for a grand total of 20.

The Complete Saga is the ultimate fun-time Star Wars experience, so far sure to stick it all home.

IS THE FORCE STRONG IN YOU?

Can you name the characters from Lego Star Wars: The Complete Saga we are describing here?

□□□□□□□□

This is the dangerous, heavily armed bounty hunter mysteriously hired to eliminate Senator Amidala. Swift to action, this guy is a refined, unrelenting assassin and an excellent tracker too.

□□□□□□□□

With an athletic build, an exotic beauty, and deep cerulean hue, this character stands out among the many faces of the Jedi ranks. She was a Jedi Knight during the twilight years of the order, and operated out of the Jedi Temple on Coruscant.

□□□□□□□□

The imposing leader of Naboo's Gungans, presiding over all Gungan affairs from the beautiful city of Otoh Gunga, this character possesses a resonant voice and very strong convictions.

Anakin Skywalker's former master, now a junk dealer on Tatooine and inhabitant of Mos Espa, this character is a Toydarian with small wings and a pudgy body.

Colosseum Boss Help

Q

Dear Professor Yew,
For what seems like ages now I have been playing Pokémon Colosseum on my GameCube, and I've made it all the way to the final boss in the game, number 14, Shady Guy. Do you have any tips for me so that I can polish this game off once and for all?
From Colin Makepiece, Nottingham

A

Of course I do Colin, I know everything there is to know about Pokémon! Well done on getting so far in the game. Shady Guy actually takes the form of yourself, so it's a tough battle. He has a Toggetic at Lv 20, Armaldo Lv 68, Milotic Lv 68, Manectric Lv 68, Houndoom Lv 68 and Gyarados Lv 68. You need to make sure all of your Pokémon are at least at level 65 if you're going to beat him. If they're not, get training now! Beat Toggetic with any attack you like; use a high level of Surf attack on Armaldo; Milotic and Gyarados need Electric attacks used on them; a Rock attack works on Manectric; then finish off Houndoom with a Water attack to complete the battle!

Dungeon Freebies!

Q

Dear Professor Yew,
I was reading on a Pokémon internet forum about a mode in Pokémon Mystery Dungeon: Blue Rescue Team on DS where you can link up with other DS consoles if they are in the same mode to get free stuff. Can you tell me more about this please?
From Shane Chapman, Hereford

Well it's true Shane! It's called the Unknown Dungeon mode. Set your DS to this mode and you will hear a chime if another DS is nearby set to the same mode in the game. Then you will both get free items. Neat eh?

Unlockable ReVolutions!

Dear Professor Yew, I've been lucky enough to be playing Pokémon Battle Revolution and I was reading on a website that there are lots of unlockable items you get when you complete each section. Can you tell me all you know about the unlockables? Thanks, your number one fan, Gregory Packham, Paignton.

Hello Gregory, thanks for your question, yes you're right, there are lots of unlockable things hiding away in the brilliant Battle Revolution on Wii, it's always good to have something as a reward when you complete a section of a game like this, I find. Here's the lowdown on what you can unlock for yourself...

THRILLVILLE OFF THE RAILS

The new Thrillville game certainly lives up to its name with 20 death-defying rides so outrageous, they inspire the same word from every park visitor who sees them. "WHOA!" Players build these incredible 'WHOA Coasters' to leap from one track to another, launch through the air like cannonballs, blast through a burning ring of fire and more.

But the new fun doesn't stop there. Off The Rails features 34 playable multiplayer mini-games, 15 all-new theme areas, over 40 thrill rides, a new story that ties together more than 100 missions, and social interaction with park guests that's better than ever. The in-depth conversations both advance the plot and suggest better ways to manage the park. But is every guest to be trusted?

In the home console versions you get to experience the fun of interacting with a theme park you create. You build and ride your own creations, talk and joke with all your guests and play dozens of mini-games. Visit 15 themed areas like Battleville, Winterville, Spaceville and Aeroville, all spread throughout five new parks. Create 20 death-defying WHOA Coasters such as the Hotrod Stunt, where a nitro boost propels a car across a broken track; Pendulizer, where a giant arm grabs the car just before a gap in the track, whips it around in a full circle, then sets it down on the other side; Escape Drop has the track holding a car stationary as it lifts itself from level ground to a full 90-degree drop – then it lets go! You can even distinguish your rides more with enhanced custom options. Attach animatronics flowers, and flaming hoops to all of your coasters and rides.

There are 34 mini-games packed into this experience – 14 new, 20 returning from the original Thrillville, but with new levels. The Robo K.O. has you hitting, bopping and blocking with boxing robots; Sparkle Quest is a delightful 2D platforming action game on Sparkle Island; Bandito Chinchilla is a classic side-scrolling beat-'em-up where you're a boxing Chihuahua; and Tank Frenzy gets combative with a vertically scrolling shoot-'em-up.

TEST YOUR STRENGTH!

We've hidden ten words from the world of Thrillville: Off The Rails in this wordsearch. Can you find them all, ring the bell and win top prize? They go up, down, left, right and diagonally in all direction! Here are the words you need to find...

DEATHDEFYING
DONKEY
BOXING
DERBY

This new version of Thrillville boasts smarter guests, better dialogue and more focused two-way conversation. There are Wii exclusives too – use the Wii Remote in innovative ways to develop roller coasters and play mini-games with the flick of your wrist. Also, on Xbox 360 there's the exclusive feature that all mini-games have leaderboards on Xbox Live.

If it's a handheld game you're interested in then the Nintendo DS Off The Rails is a unique version built from the ground up to take full advantage of the Nintendo DS touch-screen capabilities. You get to use the stylus in innovative ways and play one of the seven new mini-games designed just for this console. Air Hockey uses the stylus to move a paddle and knock the puck into the other player's goal zone and Donkey Derby has you shooting balls into holes where scoring three balls in a row gives the option to block!

Frontier has really pulled out all the stops for the Thrillville sequel – buy a ticket and take this theme park extravaganza for a ride! ■

AIRMAN

There's something rather special for you free with this issue of Pokémon World magazine – an Airman Glider Kit thanks to the lovely people at Puffin Books. The kit is to celebrate the launch of a fantastic new book from celebrated author of the Artemis Fowl series, Eoin Colfer, which is an excellent read.

It's a story of swashbuckling adventure, romance, science fiction and betrayal. The book boasts a dashing hero, a dastardly villain, swords a-plenty, castles, explosions, diamonds and a princess too!

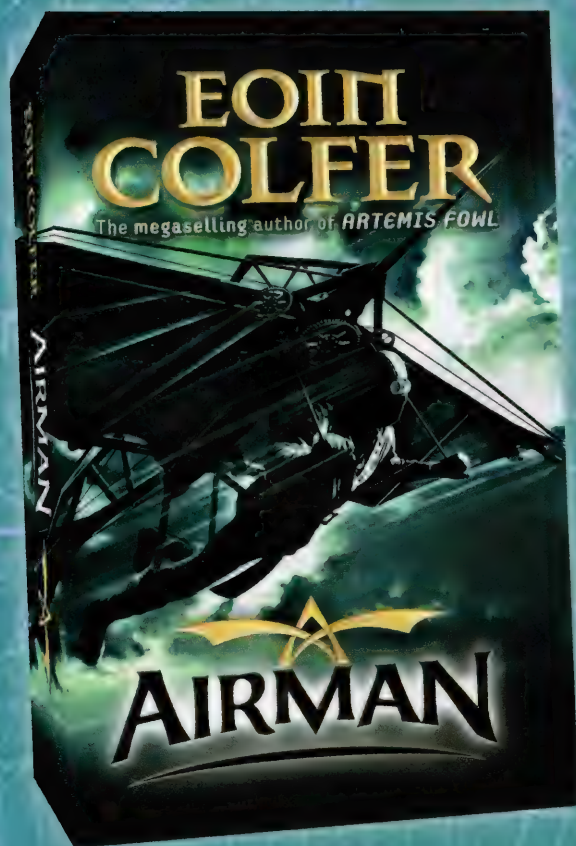

Conor Broekhart was born to fly. Or more accurately, he was born flying in a hot air balloon! Little wonder he became what he did. In an age of discovery and invention, many dreamed of flying, but for Conor, flight was more than just a dream; it was his destiny. He became obsessed with flying and set about building his very own flying machine.

One dark night on the island of Great Saltee, a cruel and cunning betrayal destroyed his life and stole his future. Now Conor must win the race for flight, to save his family and right a terrible wrong...

When asked about Airman Eoin Colfer writes, "This is a bit of a departure for me. There are no leprechauns, no magical underground cities and no flatulent dwarves (which may have been a mistake – never underestimate the appeal of wind). But I decided that it was time to indulge myself and tell the story that has been in my heart for decades. I have long been a fan of high adventure. As a child and young man these books were without a doubt my favourite type to read.

I loved the impossible tasks set for the hero, and the appalling badness of the villain. Airman is high adventure to the hilt of its various swords. I was determined to be serious with this book. No jokes. Not a single one. But then one sneaked in on page eight, and of course, then they all came tumbling out like beads from a bottle, and before I knew it there were even a few comedy side-kicks. No dwarfs though. Honest."

The book has received rave reviews from the press. The Guardian called it "A huge hit... As ever, Colfer's story rattles along at a tremendous pace with a cast of eccentric and explosive characters", The Sunday Times described it as "Smart and page-turning", while the Mail On Sunday wrote "Eoin Colfer's best book yet". @

Who is Eoin Colfer?

Born in Wexford, Ireland on 14 May 1965, Eoin Colfer always dreamed of writing books for a living. While his first book, Benny and Omar, was published in 1998, it wasn't until he created his first Artemis Fowl book in 2001 that he achieved massive success and worldwide recognition, becoming the New York Times best-selling author of books for children and teens. Take a look at some of Eoin's highlights...

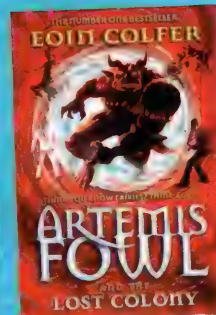

• Benny and Omar

• Artemis Fowl

• Artemis Fowl and the Arctic Incident

• Artemis Fowl and the Lost Colony

TRADING CARD GAME

London Battle Royal

one Deck to rule them all, one Deck to find them, one Deck to bring them all and in Selfridges Hotel bind them!

From a field of 75 players, just three battled their way through to win the title Battle Royal Champion 2007.

And they were all playing variants of the same deck – using Blissey and Lucario. In the last issue of Pokémon World we told you just how good Blissey could be and lo and behold, it dominated at London's Battle Royal, proving just what a force it can be.

The room was packed with players battling fiercely to see who would be crowned King or Queen of the Battle Royal, but in the end only one player in each age group could win through. Blissey was being played in abundance across all the age groups, but was it skill or the deck tweaks that helped the winners reach the top? From what we saw it was a matter of good deck-building skills and excellent player ability that took our three eventual winners to the top of the pile.

Brothers Thomas and Nicolas Harlé won through to the top spot in the Masters and Juniors age groups, while former UK Champion Nicholas Fotheringham stamped his authority on the Seniors age group by winning every single one of his matches and going undefeated through to the finals.

The brothers Harlé had made a special trip from France to play and brought with them their team-mates from Team Gouda – the team's orange T-shirts were much in evidence throughout the day and they showed many of the UK players how competitive international players can be.

While Thomas and Nicolas Harlé played exactly the same deck, Nicholas Fotheringham

Ditto's Hot Pick – Kingdra Surprise! The deck that nearly won in London

Although Blissey dominated London's Battle Royal, there was one other deck being played in the Seniors age group that caught Ditto's eye. Since we had already covered Blissey and it's variants in detail last issue, we are not going to do so again this issue. So, as we are not going to cover the winning decks, Ditto was glad to see something different from the rest of the pack making it to the Seniors age group finals.

Frederick Nielsen played the deck Ditto has decided to call 'Kingdra Surprise' – It so nearly won him the Seniors' age group, where he was eventually beaten by former UK Nationals Champion Nicholas Fotheringham. His deck shows how you can still be competitive with cards from older sets and that decks laden with newer Diamond and Pearl Pokémon are not going to get an easy ride from some Delta Species decks.

So here is Ditto's Hot Pick from London's Battle Royal – we give you 'Kingdra Surprise'...

Kingdra Surprise

Pokémon (22)

- 4 x Kingdra EX 94 (EX Dragon Frontiers)
- 1 x Seadra 37 (EX Dragon Frontiers)
- 2 x Seadra 22 (EX Dragon Frontiers)
- 2 x Horsea 66 (EX Holon Phantoms)
- 2 x Horsea 50 (EX Dragon Frontiers)
- 2 x Altaria EX 90 (EX Dragon Frontiers)
- 2 x Swablu 65 (EX Dragon Frontiers)
- 2 x Fearow 18 (EX Crystal Guardians)
- 2 x Spearow 61 (EX Crystal Guardians)
- 3 x Holon's Castform 44 (EX Holon Phantoms)

Trainers (23)

- 3 x Holon Mentor
- 2 x Bebe's Search
- 2 x Scott
- 2 x Mr Stones Project
- 2 x Holon's Adventurer
- 1 x Copycat
- 3 x Rare Candy
- 2 x Crystal Beach
- 2 x Night Maintenance
- 2 x Warp Point
- 2 x Windstorm

Energy (15)

- 2 x Warp
- 13 x Fighting

The deck's main hitter is Kingdra EX from EX Dragon Frontiers. A solid 40 damage and the chance to attach an energy card from the discard pile make the first attack, 'Energy Link', useful but it is the 'Protective Swirl' attack that is Kingdra's best – for one fighting and two of any other energy it can do 80 Damage and take away Kingdra EX's weakness next turn.

Now combine 'Protective Swirl' with the 'Extra Smoke' Poké-Body. This reduces the damage done to your stage two Pokémon by 10 HP, and yes it is cumulative, so have two Kingdra EXs in play and you'll knock 20 damage off your opponent's attack, three in play and you'll knock off 30! As you can see, with the potential to reduce your opponent's attacks and with a very respectable 140 HP, this is a powerhouse Pokémon that will certainly take some knocking out.

But any powerhouse needs to have the raw material to produce the knockout blows and Kingdra EX has an array of other Delta Species-tagged Pokémon to help it set up for the killer blows.

For example Fearow 'Delta' played an interesting variant on the normal Blissey/Lucario deck – his build could more rightly be called a Lublissio deck. Nicholas had more focus on the Lucario element and in a Blissey-rich environment he showed just how powerful that legendary fighting Pokémon could be.

So Blissey and friends took London by storm, but what we are waiting to see now is just how the addition of the 'Secret Wonders' set to the UK Modified Format from 4 December will affect the dominance of these Blissey decks? Certainly there are already some very interesting decks starting to emerge that are based around using Weavile's 'Shadow Charge' attack. And then there is the return of Electrode with the 'Energy Shift' Poké-Power and there are the multiple Gardevoir variants and Gallade that also look good. And still the threat from some of the 'Delta Decks' lurks too.

Battle Royal London may well have been the swansong for Blissey and its variants; perhaps the rule of the one deck is over? One thing is for sure though, we at Pokémon World will continue to bring you news on the best decks, the best players and best places to play – so reserve your copy and make sure you do not miss out on all the news on the Pokémon Trading Card Game.

helps you find the evolutions you need, when you need them, it has the 'Delta Sign' Poké-Power that can fetch a Delta-tagged Pokémon from your deck to your hand. Combined with Rare Candy, it can get you the big, bad Pokémon you need, exactly when you need them.

Although Altaria EX has a useful attack, 'Healing Light' – it does 60 damage and can remove one damage counter from each of your Pokémon – Altaria EX is not in the deck to attack. Like Fearow and Holon's Castform it is a support line to Kingdra EX.

Finally among the Pokémon there is Holon's Castform – many of the Delta Species Pokémon have been dropped from recent decks and this one was a feature of many Delta decks in the past. Not only can you draw cards with it early in the game, based on the number of Delta-tagged Pokémon you have in play, but you can also attach subsequent Holon's Castforms drawn to your Pokémon as the equivalent of a double Rainbow Energy.

Then there is Altaria EX Delta; with the 'Extra Boost' Poké-Power, Altaria can attach a basic energy card from your hand to one of your stage two Pokémon EX, so now we can power up our big hitter quicker.

So the Pokémon all have tremendous synergy with each other, they support the main hitter Kingdra EX, help set it up by letting you draw the cards you want, fill your hand with cards and place extra energy into play. And the same is true of the trainers; they continue to work together with the Pokémon cards in the deck. Holon Mentor fills the bench with Delta-tagged Pokémon for Holon's Castform to draw more cards. Bebe's Search lets us find the evolutions we need, so we can set up Spearow 'Delta' when we do not draw into it and when the 'Delta Sign' Poké-Power may be shut off by Cessation Crystal.

And then there is Rare Candy, which helps you evolve quickly and is backed up by Scott, which helps you get the Supporters and Stadiums you need, when you need them. All in all the trainers work nicely with the Pokémon and the result is a well-rounded deck that, with a little more luck and tweaking, could have won the London event.

It shows that the Delta-tagged Pokémon and Pokémon EX are still able to battle on in a Diamond and Pearl world. Our advice is not to put those Delta-tagged Pokémon away just yet; if you play the right deck you may well still pull off a 'Kingdra Surprise'!

The latest news on the Pokémon Trading Card and Trading Figure Games

After some delay, the UK has finally started the 2007-2008 Pokémon Trading Card Game Worlds Qualifier Season with the announcement of the first City Championship (CC) dates. The CCs are planned to run from January to March 2008.

With a new Organised Play Manager in place, the UK is starting to move forward – although it is disappointing to see that the 2008 UK Nationals may yet again be a qualified player only event. This means that players will need to win a place at Nationals through qualifying events like the City Championships (CCs) and Regional Championships (STPs).

The plan this season will be for 20 City Championships and around four Regional Championships, so that only gives us 60 players qualifying from CCs and a further 96 from the STPs, making the UK Nationals a maximum of 156 players! So start booking your place and get along to one of the UK CCs listed here.

The latest set of the Pokémon Trading Figure Game hits the US

The US has seen the release of a follow-up set to the 'Next Quest' Pokémon Trading Figure Game... 'Groundbreakers'. The new set features 38 new figures including four new trainers – Green, Koga, Landon and Sabrina – and some awesome Pokémon, like Blastoise, Latias, Latios and Mewtwo. There is no news on when, if ever, the new figure game will come to the UK; right now, if you are a fan and want to 'spin 'em all', then eBay or direct import from the US seem to be your only options. ☺

The Great Encounters is set for February release in the UK

Good news for Pokémon fans, the next new set for the Trading Card Game has a planned UK release date of Wednesday 13 February.

'Diamond & Pearl: Great Encounters' promises us a chance to "witness legendary battles and experience great encounters". There are new versions of Palkia and Dialga, and a mysterious legendary Pokémon in the set. We also expect to see some brand-new Pokémon – more Pokémon LV.X.

Rumour also has it that 'Great Encounters' will see the release of the newest Eeveelutions, Leafeon and Glacion, and that it will also include new versions of some classic fossil Pokémon – Kabutops, Omastar, and Aerodactyl.

For the fossil Pokémon there is a change and instead of evolving from the old 'Mysterious Fossil' card, these Pokémon will evolve from three new trainer cards – 'Dome Fossil', for evolving Kabuto; 'Helix Fossil' for evolving Omastar; and 'Old Amber' for evolving to Aerodactyl.

'Great Encounters' is your chance to encounter greatness! Look out for...

- More new Diamond and Pearl Pokémon!
- More powerful new Pokémon LV.X.
- Includes two brand-new Legendary Pokémon – Cresselia and a mysterious, powerful Pokémon.
- Features three theme decks built around new Diamond and Pearl Pokémon!
- Exciting holographic parallel set for players and collectors alike.
- Over 100 cards in all!
- In shops 13 February 2008!
- Three theme decks – Eternal Time, Infinite Space, and Endless Night.

New blisters in Japan feature LV.X Pokémon

Japan has a new way to grab those level X Pokémon via special booster blisters – the blisters feature a booster pack and two level X Pokémon (Torterra LV.X and Bronzong LV.X in one, Empoleon LV.X and Mothim LV.X in the other).

Well that is it for TCG and TFG news for this issue. GREAT POKÉMON MOMENT

When Ash Met Pikachu!

Ash Ketchum was just a normal ten-year-old boy back in 1997 when the first ever episode of the Pokémon animated series was broadcast. Living in Pallet Town with his mum, he enjoyed watching Pokémon battles on his TV and dreamt of one day becoming a famous Pokémon Trainer. Luckily for him, Professor Oak was taking on new recruits that next day as he had three new Pokémon that were perfect for training – Squirtle, Bulbasaur and Charmander. Ash finds it hard to sleep that night, but eventually falls asleep and dreams of throwing Pokéballs. Unfortunately he picks up his Voltorb alarm clock in his sleep and throws it, smashing it. With no alarm, Ash oversleeps and is late down to Professor Oak's lab the next morning. The three Pokémon have already been given out to eager young Trainers, one of them is Gary, the Professor's grandson and Ash's arch rival! Ash pleads with Oak to let him have a Pokémon, and there is one left but there is a problem with it – it shocks anyone who tries to pick it up. Ash doesn't care, though, he's just happy to have Pikachu as his first Pokémon! ☺
